LOCAL OPTION LAW

Constitutionality of Law Argued Before Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court heard argument on the constitutionality of the county local option law Wednesday morning. The present law was defended by R. C. Minton, attorney of the Anti Saloon League, J. Frank Hanly and Attorney-General James Bingham. George Shirts, of Noblesville and Ferdinand Winters of Indianapolis argued that the law was unconstitutional.

The case was one appealed from Noblesville and was that of George McPherson vs. the State and was brought for the purpose of testing the local option law. McPherson was fined in the Circuit court of Hamilton county for selling liquor three months after the county had been voted dry. The facts were admitted.

The attorneys for the state argued that the Moore remonstrance law and the Nicholson law had both been held constitutional by the Supreme Court, and that the act of 1908 was merely a broadening out of the powers granted under the former two acts. If these two acts are constitutional, they argued, then the act of 1908 is constitutional.

The attorneys for the appellant argued that the act was unconstitutional because the title of the act was not sufficiently broad to include prohibition, which was provided for by the text of the act. It was also declared unconstitutional because it was a delegation by the Legislature of its powers to the people, by leaving it to the people to determine whether they would have prohibition or license. Also, it was held that the law, by making it a county by county affair, made it a special or local law, and not operative against the entire people. It provided too, they declared, for the suspension of the license law, the constitution to the contrary being that no law can be suspended for any portion of the people of the state.

The attorneys for the state held that the act was no more "prohibition" than the Moore or the Nicholson acts, both of which have been held constitutional, and as a consequence the argument that the title of the act did not define what was contained in the text was impertinent. Appeal was also made on the ground that the liquor traffic was productive of evils dangerous to the public and detrimental to good order.

Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Esther Carter was conducted at the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 and was attended by a large concourse of the relatives and the lifelong friends of the deceased. In the absence of Rev. Albert Ogle, who was to have preached the funeral sermon, the services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. M. Huckleberry assisted by Rev. H. H. Allen, pastor of the First Methodist church. A choir of ten voices furnished music and some of the songs were sung by special request. A long procession followed the remains to Riverview cemetery, grandchildren of the deceased acting as pallbearers. A song was sung by the choir at the grave. Mrs. Carter was by several years the oldest member of the First Baptist church in this city and was the oldest resident of the community. She was also the mother of the first child born in Seymour. This son was John A. Carter, the architect, who at present resides at Los Angeles, California, where he moved from Shelbyville a few years ago.

Quite a number from a distance attended the funeral among whom were Jonathan Killey, Thomas Killey and Jonathan Lee, of near Crothersville, Kinchen Killey, of Scottsburg, Wallace Newby, of Cincinnati, Misses Katherine Newby and Carrie Carter, of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Arnold, and children of Terre Haute, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Carter, and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Spear, of Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Jones, of Covington, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carter, of North Vernon, James Jones, of Greenville, Ill., and Esther Briner, of near Crothersville. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boas, of Valonia.

Must Have Permission.

Farmers in this county have been frequently annoyed by occasional visits of gypsies to their communities, and the establishment of camps adjoining their lands. However, Indiana, now has a law enacted by the last legislature regulating the camping of gypsies and other persons on public roads of the state. Such camping is forbidden all persons unless they secure the consent of the owner of adjacent land or the owner of land abutting on the highway. The penalty for violating this law is a fine of not more than $25 or imprisonment in the county jail no more than thirty days or both.

Scott Will Vote.

Scott county will hold a local option election on Tuesday, Nov. 23 to decide whether the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage shall be prohibited.

Monday a petition signed by 883 persons was presented to the Board of County Commissioners asking that an election be held. The prayer of the petitioners was granted and an election was ordered for November 23. W. A. Smith and George F. Cline were appointed election commissioners.

BANK CASES

Indiana Defaulters Now Before Federal Grand Jury.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—Investigating into alleged violations of various federal laws, the federal grand jury has begun upon its grind. The present session of the grand jury is to have presented to it more cases of alleged violations of the federal banking laws than any preceding grand jury for this district. Probably the cases that are of the most interest in this city are those concerning Max P. Emmerich, a former bookkeeper at the Capital National bank of this city; Harry C. Prinzler and Paul C. Gall, the latter a well known politician and cigar man of this city. By a system of manipulation of the books of the bank, it is said, Emmerich succeeded in making way with a considerable sum of money. The defalcations of Emmerich were not discovered until he had left the city. He was arrested at Jacksonville, Fla., and brought back to this city, where he was released on $5,000 bond. Gall and Prinzler were also released on bonds of $5,000 each. The charge against Emmerich was of having made false entries in the books of the bank. Prinzler was charged with having conspired with Emmerich and Gall is charged with having aided and abetted Emmerich.

Other cases to be presented to the grand jury that will be of great interest throughout the state will be those involving Elbert W. Shirk, who was president of the First National bank of Tipton and prominent as a northern Indiana and Chicago capitalist, and William H. Marker and Noah R. Marker, formerly cashier and assistant cashier of the Tipton bank. The total shortage at this bank was about $103,000, and just where all this money went has not yet been disclosed. Noah R. Marker, who was assistant cashier, was alleged to have embezzled $50,000, which is said to have disappeared from the strongbox of the institution. He had disappeared from Tipton several days, and when he returned he said that he had been on a fishing trip, and he disclaimed any knowledge of this missing money.

He was charged with embezzlement of the funds of the bank. William Marker was charged with having made false entries in a report to the controller of the conditions of the affairs of the bank. The charge against Shirk is of misapplication of $23,000 of the bank's funds, but he asserted that this money had been paid to him to reimburse him for loans he had made to the institution, and Marker had failed to make proper entries of the matter. He and members of his family owning the bank made good the bank's shortage and the bank is on its feet again and in full operation. Shirk was released on a $20,000 bond and the Markers were released on bonds of $10,000 each.

Another case is that concerning Frank H. Nicolai, who was assistant cashier of the City National bank of Auburn, and who disappeared one day, leaving a shortage of about $5,000, it is alleged. Before leaving he had purchased a revolver and his friends feared he had committed suicide, but he returned in a day or two somewhat the worse for wear, but with no bullet wounds, having passed the intervening time in the neighborhood of town.

He was arrested, charged with having embezzled funds of the bank, and was released on bond of $3,500. This does not exhaust the bank cases that will be presented to the grand jury for investigation, however, for there also will be presented the case against James H. Phillips, who was bookkeeper of the Terre Haute National bank, and who is charged with embezzlement of $15,000, and who was released on $5,000 bond, and the case of E. N. Detzer, who was teller of the First National bank of Ft. Wayne, and who was charged with embezzlement of $7,000, and who was released on bond of $5,000.

Glee Club Coming.

The DePauw University Glee Club, which is without a doubt Indiana's foremost group of college singers, will appear in Seymour on its Christmas tour through Southern Indiana. Professor J. C. Edwards, who represented the senior class in the high school, yesterday received a letter from Manager G. B. Clippinger, in which final arrangements were made. The date has not been definitely announced as yet, but it will be determined within a short time.

Twenty men will be carried on the Christmas trip this year and the club is undoubtedly the best that has ever represented DePauw University. It is even better than the club which gave an entertainment here two years ago. At least seventy-five men tried out for places on the club and it was out of this number that the twenty were selected. The club is very popular this year and all the demands for its time could not be satisfied.

The senior class in the high school was able to close the date because Seymour is on the general trip which was laid out for the club. The class is now making plans for the entertainment and tickets will be on sale before long.

New Suit Filed.

William M. Marshall vs. Clara Marshall, damages. This suit is a little out of the ordinary. The plaintiff and defendant were united in marriage in November, 1908, but only lived together a few months. At the April term of court, 1909, Mrs. Marshall filed a suit for divorce, and in her complaint alleged cruel treatment and failure to provide as just cause for divorce. Mr. Marshall failed to appear to answer the charges when the case was called for trial and the plaintiff was granted a divorce on default. In his complaint for damage, Mr. Marshall now says that the charges of cruel treatment and failure to provide in Mrs. Marshall's divorce suit were untrue, and by reason of statements upon the court records and in open court his good moral character has been damaged in the sum of $1000.

The track and the grade is being put in the best possible shape to stand the winter and spring rains and the freezing and thawing.

In order that the classes may not be disturbed, a ruling has been made that telephone calls cannot be answered by pupils except at the recess periods, except when the messages are very important.

The teachers of the Third Ward building have organized their play grounds. A basket ball court has been made for the girls, a base ball grounds for the boys and now a May pole is being erected. In many schools the recreation periods are provided with systematic games, but this is the first time it has been tried in this city. The teachers report that the new method is very satisfactory.

Few Hunting Licenses.

It is said that there are fewer hunting licenses, being issued in Indiana this year than ever before and it is thought the total number will be much smaller than any previous year.

In Jackson county, however, about the regular number of licenses have been issued to the present date, although the total number may be somewhat less than is usually issued.

The decreased number is believed to be due to the fact that game preserves cover a large scope of the state and the law is strict about hunting on the game preserves. According to the law and rules governing game preserves a man cannot hunt on his own grounds for four years without a license and cannot give any one permission to hunt on his ground with a gun or dog, even if the person has a license. These laws are to protect the quail and Hungarian pheasants, but it also gives the rabbits a chance to overrun the preserves and it is predicted that they will do much damage to young fruit trees. The season for hunting any kind of game is closed until November 10th.

Tramp Tavern.

It is said that the tramps have established headquarters at Bloomington, which is known as "Tramp Tavern." They have taken possession of an empty house on the Monon railroad and have fitted it up with a stove and bunks. It seems that many of the wonderers have heard of the tavern before they came to Bloomington and always make it their headquarters.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1909

It is well to keep in mind that Seymour must have a new and modern school building to take the place of the old one that has served its day.

President Taft is nearing the end of his long journey and will soon be back at the White House. He has been received everywhere with intense enthusiasm.

Now there is talk about the reorganization of Tammany and the retirement of Boss Murphy. It would be better for Tammany to go out of the political business entirely.

The entire brewery crowd and Tom Taggart could not save Gauss at Indianapolis. The voters there did the wise thing in electing Lew Shank mayor. He will surround himself with the right kind of men and will give the people of the capital city a good administration.

It is a confession of weakness to say that "blind tigers" can not be located and put out of business. There is no question about the ability of vigilant officers to prevent the operation of an illegal joint of any kind. It can be done and the officers who do not do it fail to do their full duty.

DIED.

GALLIMORE:—Mrs. Elizabeth Gallimore, wife of John Gallimore, died early Wednesday evening, November 3, 1909, at their home on N. Bill street, after an extended illness with paralysis. Age 66 years and 6 days. She had been in declining health for about two years and her condition had been very serious for some time. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jehu Little and was born in Washington county, August 28, 1843. After their marriage, which occurred about forty-one years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gallimore resided in Bartholomew county for some time before moving to the Pleasant Grove neighborhood near Brownstown. They moved to Seymour one year ago today, November 4, 1908. She leaves no children, an adopted son and daughter having preceded her to the grave. Besides her husband she leaves one brother and three sisters, Calvin Little, of near Seymour, Mrs. Jennie Manuel, of Kansas City, Mrs. Mollie Murray, of Columbus, and Mrs. Julia Rucker, of this city. Funeral services at the residence Friday morning at eight o'clock, conducted by the Rev. H. H. Allen, pastor of the First M. E. church, after which the remains will be taken to Brownstown by land and interred in the Fairview cemetery.

Christmas Presents

FOR BABY

At first glance the Christmas gift for King Baby, impregnable as he is in his pink and white well fed contentment, seems the hardest problem of the holiday season. He has no wants that are obvious and patent, and it is evidently quite hopeless to ask him to follow his big brothers and sisters' example and write out a list of the desires of his heart for Santa to gratify. On a venture just try how his highness will like a toy belt. It is made of a piece of two inch satin ribbon long enough to fit about the waist comfortably and to tie in an attractive bow in the back with long ends. The portion that is supposed to go around the waist of the infant is doubled over to form a belt, from which hang pendent from satin streamers a whistle—silver if money is not a consideration—a rubber doll and, on the third end, a small play ball. The belt is then completed.

String Doll.

Easier to make than the rag doll and much more hygienic, for babies have the bad habit of putting things in their mouths and the paint on rag dolls is often poisonous, is the string doll. It is evolved from quantities of heavy white soft string cut into lengths for the body and arms. The head is stuffed out with wadding, also the body, and the shapes formed by tying about neck and waist pieces of baby ribbon of some bright color. Beads are stuck in for eyes, and a mouth is made with colored thread worked in with a needle. About the wrist is a ribbon outlining the pudgy hand.

Baby's Bonnet Box.

The baby has his bonnet box as well as his mamma, but it is a cunning little round affair covered with flowered paper in a pretty babyish design of forgetmenots. This is one of the prettiest new ideas in connection with the infant's layette and makes a charming Christmas gift. Inside the box is fitted with a round, scented lining of silk, and the top of the lid is finished in the same way. Gathering the silk in rosette fashion and catching up the ends in the center of the lid with a rosette of baby ribbon is a dainty touch to the box.

Baby Bibs.

A baby cannot have too many bibs, and there is nothing a mother appreciates more than gift bibs for her baby.

A pretty bib is made of sheer lawn, embroidered with the transparent embroidery which consists of catstitch done on the wrong side of the material for the flowers and simple outline stitch for the stems and scrolls. Set the embroidered lawn on to a heavy linen back. Trim the bib with an edging of valenciennes lace. With this bib can be given one of the silver fasteners, which are new and useful.

Two Pretty Presents.

An acceptable present for a baby is the sets of silver safety pins that come on three rings tied together with a ribbon. Each ring contains a dozen of the pins, and all the dozens differ in size.

For the rubber blanket used on the crib there are slips the exact size made with small buttons and holes so that a fresh one may be put on with little trouble. These must bear the embroidered initials of the new arrival.

Saving Himself.

An Irishman who was repairing a chimney on a housetop fell from the roof and luckily hit several clotheslines that broke his fall until he landed uninjured on a wire about twenty feet from the ground. After he had struggled there for a few moments the man deliberately let go and fell with a heavy bump on the ground. Another workman ran and picked him up and asked, "That the devil did ye let go for, you bluntherin' blockhead?" "Faith," was the reply, "I was afraid the down'd wire would break."

The Game of Life.

Life is a game of whist. From unseen sources The cards are shuffled and the hands are dealt. Blind are our efforts to control the forces That, though unseen, are no less strongly felt.

I do not like the way the cards are shuffled, But yet I like the game and want to play. And through the long, long night will I, unruled, Play what I get until the break of day. —Eugene F. Ware.

One Enough.

A Chinese missionary, a lady, was taking tea with a mandarin's eight wives. The Chinese ladies examined her clothing, her hair, her teeth, and so on, but her feet especially amazed them.

"Why," one cried, "you can walk and run as well as a man!"

"Yes, to be sure!" said the missionary.

"Can you ride a horse and swim too?"

"Yes."

"Then you must be as strong as a man?"

"I am."

"And you wouldn't let a man beat you, not even if he was your husband, would you?"

"Indeed, I wouldn't!" said the missionary.

The mandarin's eight wives looked at one another, nodding their heads. Then the oldest said softly:

"Now I understand why the foreign devil never has more than one wife. He is afraid."

The Personal Consideration.

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is a plutocrat?"

"A plutocrat, my son, is a man who is vastly wealthy, but declines to endow any project in which you are immediately interested." — Washington Star.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

THE BLESSING OF TIRE.

Tired? Well, that is a good way to be. Stop and think how glad you ought to be because you get tired and hungry and sleepy.

Why? Because you can enjoy to the full the great luxuries of rest and good appetite and sleep.

For you know there are many people who grow weary in mind, but who are never truly tired in body; people who force themselves to eat without being hungry; people who try to sleep and cannot.

To be tired is a blessing. Work is the great panacea of life, the best recipe of nature. "Work is the best cure of psychotherapy," says Dr. Robert Cabot, professor of medicine at Harvard.

And therefore, Mr. Man, if you are obliged to work to the point of tiring to make both ends meet; if you are bound by the insistent demands of family until you are tired, madam—blessed are you.

Work rightly understood and rightly performed is a great joy in itself. And it is the greatest cure in the world for grief and sorrow.

No wonder Adam and Eve "fell."

They had absolutely nothing to do but to roam through the garden and pluck what they wanted—save from one tree. Any man or woman with nothing whatever to do will fall.

Before the "fall" Adam and Eve never got tired, because they never labored.

And so the primeval fiat, "In the sweat of thy brow thou shalt eat thy bread," was a blessing in disguise. It set them to find joy in work and comfort in rest.

The greatest curse of humanity is not that of forced work, but of forced idleness. Thousands of people are under that curse. They have never known what it is to get physically tired. They have never done an honest day's labor in their lives.

Pity them. Do not envy them. Pity them.

They know nothing of the sweetness of congenial labors. They have never known the joy of resting from labors. They have never been tired. They are miserable.

Emerson taught us a lot about compensation—how everything in the world averages up. So it is worth while, it pays, to get tired, because labor is the law of life, because rest follows tire, because work drowns sorrow.

QUICK TO LEARN.

The Timid Young Bride Coaxed by Her Husband.

A young bride who belonged to a charity club and sometimes had to go out alone after dark was very much afraid of being stopped and robbed. Her husband disliked to provide her with a revolver, but he bought a punching bag and showed her how to use her fists and where to place the most telling blow in case of molestation.

"Below the belt, mind you," he advised her—"below the belt. Such a blow if properly planted will make a man sorry quicker than anything. If any one steps out in front of you your course will be easy. If he comes up behind you swing round suddenly and strike out hard. The robber will repent of his evil ways in a hurry."

That night was the bride's late evening, and she happened to be coming up the street just in front of her husband when he saw her, and the spirit of mischief took possession of him.

"Wonder if she'd really do as I told her or if her little fists would hurt any one?" he pondered.

Two seconds later he found out. Walking up behind his wife, he laid a heavy hand upon her shoulder. He had no time in which to say anything, and she made no effort in that direction. She simply obeyed his instructions to the letter, swinging round with a suddenness which completely disconcerted him, and delivered a blow that made all the rest of his predictions come true.

Then she fled home with the speed and energy of a frightened deer, not even waiting to cast a single glance at the discomfited man who had, as she supposed, endeavored to rob her. She passed the remainder of the evening in alternately weeping out her nervousness upon her husband's shoulder and wondering why he looked so pale.

A Fellow Named Marty.

John Stetson, the famous old theatrical manager of Boston, was a man of great native ability, but his early education had been somewhat neglected, and the go-as-you-please fashion in which he handled the king's English was continually horrifying his punctilious fellow townsmen. On one occasion he was interested in the organization of a light opera company and was disappointed to hear that a certain popular prima donna whom he hoped to secure was about to start south.

"I've signed a contract for Mardi Gras," she said. "to sing in New Orleans."

"Hub?" grunted Mr. Stetson. "Hope you get your money." Later on he reported the matter to his partner.

"Well, we can't get her," he said. "She's gone and joined a fake Grau opera company."

"Which Grau is running the show?" asked the other.

"A fellow named Marty," replied Mr. Stetson. "You know Maurice Grau has about 200 second cousins, and this must be one that's just gone into the business."

Happiness.

No mockery in this world ever sounds to me so hollow as that of being told to cultivate happiness. What does such advice mean? Happiness is not a potato in mold and tilted with manure. Happiness is a glory shining far down upon us out of heaven. She is a divine dew which the soul on certain of its summer mornings feels dropping upon it from the amaranth bloom and golden fruitage of paradise.—Charlotte Bronte.

Shrimps and Children.
"Tea in the garden," says the London Chronicle, "is one of the best established of our mid-Victorian institutions. Mr. E. V. Lucas, who is a connoisseur of the caddy, recalls in his essay 'The Divine Leaf' a story of the late Arthur Cecil, who once encountered the following inscription in a garden at Kew: 'Tea, plain, 6d.; tea, with shrimps, 9d.; tea, with children, 1s.'"

TAMMANY IN A FRAME OF MIND

Dismal Reflections Over Tuesday's Defeat.

MAY DEMAND A NEW LEADER

For Some Time There Has Been Something Like a Smothered Revolution in the Ranks of the Braves, and Tuesday's Bitter Dose May Precipitate a Revolt Which Will Lead to Murphy's Deposition—Divided Responsibilities Have Led to Much Friction.

New York, Nov. 4.—Many and gloomy reflections are being made by Tammany men over Tuesday's defeat. For some time there has been something like a smothered revolution in Tammany. There have been practically three leaders; in fact, four—Mr. Murphy, Mr. Cohalan, the Tims, Big Tim and Little Tim Sullivan. No other leaders have been consulted, it was stated, on fundamentals. The city and county and borough tickets were parcelled out, or rather allotted by these four men. There has been a divided responsibility and this has resulted in much friction. The Tom Foley followers had been stirred to the depths by the refusal to name him for borough president. There was some little talk that eventually Supreme Court Justice Dowling would be considered the leader of Tammany, but the justice made it plain in his quick sentences that he was a supreme court justice and that no man living could get him to meddle with politics while on the bench. Then, too, the old report, which has been a constant hope for several years, that Richard Croker would return and take up the reins of leadership was brought out again. "Not for millions," said Mr. Croker at the Democratic club last evening. "Not for millions. I am too old. I couldn't stand the racket. I am going to Florida on Friday."

Mr. Croker, according to his intimates, has never quite understood the animosity of Mr. Murphy to him. Outwardly their relations have been all right, but Mr. Murphy, since he became leader of Tammany, according to these self-same intimates of Mr. Croker, has seized all opportunities to attempt to humiliate Mr. Croker, and it was Croker, it was recalled, who made Murphy district leader of the Eighteenth. Croker, it was added, has not understood either the unfriendly attitude of the Sullivans to him. So there is bad feeling all around. The Tammany bunch, Charles F. Murphy, Daniel F. Cohalan and the Sullivans—Big and Little Tim—will, in the opinion of those who understand the situation, starve to death politically unless Mayor Gaynor comes to their rescue. For four years after January 1, next, these Tammany men, who have been running the organization, will have no borough president of Manhattan and the Bronx upon whom to draw for sustenance for their followers. All told, Mayor Gaynor will have two score and more fine appointments, and these offices carry with them a couple of hundred and more places, but the majority of the 45,000 office holders in city departments of every description are under civil service.

THE FIGURES ON IT

Scientific Finding Regarding the Damages of Cigarette Smoking.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 4.—In a lecture to Cornell students Professor Jenks said: "The evils of cigarette smoking from the physical side, as illustrated by careful investigations in a large eastern university during a period of nine years, were made clear. It was shown that nonusers of cigarettes gained physically about 25 per cent more than cigarette smokers. "The habit, especially in early years, leads to excesses in other directions that are even more deleterious. A similar effect seems to be felt on scholarship. As a rule, with of course individual exceptions, the all-round scholars of the highest attainments, like the all-round athletes of the highest grade, either abstain totally or are very temperate in the use of tobacco."

One Dry Spot in Westchester. White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Although the followers of local option made a hard battle to make fourteen towns in Westchester county dry, the returns show that only one town in the county went "dry." This was Yorktown in the northern part of Westchester. Mount Pleasant, where John D. Rockefeller has a country estate, went in favor of the "wets" by about 400 plurality.

He Prepared for Death. Savannah, Ga., Nov. 4.—Peter G. Leist, fifty years old, was found dead in a chair at his residence on the Augusta road. Acute indigestion or heart failure is thought to have been the cause of death. An indication that Leist feared death would come soon was evidenced by the fact that he had written his will on the wall of the room in which he lived.

BROKE EVEN

Party Favors in Indiana About Equally Divided.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—That the Democrats and Republicans have practically broken even in Indiana is shown by complete returns from the city and town elections. Though the Democrats have elected mayors and town boards in the larger number of cities and towns, the Republicans either gained or retain possession of the more important cities of the state, the most important of Tuesday's acquisitions being Evansville, Ft. Wayne and Richmond. In each of these cities there was a distinct issue with the brewers and saloons, and the results are regarded as significant because that in all of them the brewers were confident of electing their tickets. The fact that the Republicans lost so many cities, though, is regarded as significant in the face of the fact that a new administration has gone into power and one with which the Republicans are generally satisfied, outside of the tariff enactment.

TIRED TO DEATH AND ARE READY TO QUIT

So Say the Members of Roosevelt's Party.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—According to E. W. Newman, who has just returned to Chicago from a tour through East Africa, over the same ground as that traversed by the former President, members of the party of Theodore Roosevelt on his hunting trip in Africa are tired to death and ready to quit. Mr. Newman met the Roosevelt party last July at Nairobi, British East Africa, and had a long talk with the former President and his hunting companions. Regret over criticism aroused in America by the slaughter of animals was expressed by Roosevelt, according to Newman. "I regret very much the criticism and claim of wanton slaughter of animals which I have heard has come from Americans," Roosevelt said, "but I have only been killing one specimen and no more except in the case of lions, a pest to humanity. In the case of the lions I have received the heartfelt thanks of the people of the neighborhood in which I have killed the beasts. I am not a good shot," the famous hunter said to the Chicagoan, "but I shoot often."

"The people of the land are amazed at the energy of the former President," said Newman. "The individual members of his caravan have been marched to death and are anxious to quit."

HIGH SCHOOL STRIKE

Seniors at Cleveland Kick on Long Sessions and Rancid Butter.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 4.—Demanding single sessions and better lunches, over 200 boys and girls of the West Side high school went on a strike. The strikers, who were from the two upper classes, walked out in a body and the boys held a mass meeting on the public square, where Henry Roegge, a senior, addressed them. It was decided that none should return until single sessions were restored and better lunches provided.

The strike is the outgrowth of alleged poor service in the lunch rooms and the trouble has been brewing for some time. It is said many of the pupils have been compelled to wait for an hour and a half for lunch because of poor service. They declare the lunch they receive is poor and high priced. The butter, they say, is rancid.

Pickets were placed around the school and attempts were made to persuade others to strike. There is discontent in all of the schools of the city over the matter, and the strike promises to become general unless conditions are remedied.

HE TURNED HIS BACK

Iowa Officer Neglected to Keep Eye on Captured Burglars.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 4.—Patrick Hutton, city marshal of Carroll, was shot and killed by one of two robbers near Glidden, seven miles east of Carroll. Hutton had followed the robbers from Carroll, where they had entered a house. He had captured the men and while covering them with a revolver turned toward his team. Instantly one of the men shot him in the back. A posse of seventy-five men with shotguns and rifles formed an hour later and captured the robbers in a cornfield.

Wickersham for Supreme Court.

Washington, Nov. 4.—It is the understanding in Washington among men in a position to know that George W. Wickersham of New York, attorney general of the United States, will be appointed associate justice of the supreme court to succeed the late Rufus W. Peckham if he desires the office.

Mr. O'Brien at Ito's Funeral.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Mr. O'Brien, the American ambassador at Tokio, was instructed by the state department to attend the funeral of the late Prince Ito today as the official representative of the United States.

MME. STEINHEIL A FINE WITNESS

French Woman Proves Her Ability On Stand.

PARRIED COURT'S THRUSTS

With Lightning-Like Rapidity, Woman on Trial for Murder of Husband and Mother Answers Judge's Penetrating Questions, Creating a Most Profound Impression Upon Her Auditors—She Needed No Advocate and Made Every Point With the Utmost Possible Effect.

Paris, Nov. 4.—Innocent or guilty, Mme. Steinheil will not need to reproach herself for the manner in which she endured her four hours' ordeal on the witness stand. She parried with lightning-like rapidity every thrust of the presiding judge, who, in the French assize court, acts as the prosecuting attorney. Once she drove him from his line of questioning by the scornful way in which she said: "You seem to take me for a common street walker." She moved the audience to a murmur of agreement when she replied to the judge's comments on her contradictions before the magistrate who conducted the preliminary inquiry, saying: "When a poor woman has been for seven hours a day for days before a magistrate, who keeps harassing her with questions and never ceasing to repeat, 'I know you are guilty; you killed your husband and mother,' when your mind has been tortured and your spirit broken, are contradictions unnatural?"

MME. STEINHEIL.

When Mme. Steinheil appeared in court dressed in black and wearing a small toque, with a long black veil behind, a feeling of disappointment went through the male audience. Was this the beautiful "Meg," the original of all the seductive portraits that had appeared in the newspapers? Surely a year's imprisonment and her anxious position had had their effect. Her eyes alone retained their wondrous beauty. After she had conducted her case for a short time, however, her old-time charm reasserted itself, and it was not wondered how this lowly-born woman had achieved her position in Paris. She was, in turn, beseeching, imploring and menacing. Her silvery voice was now full of pathos and again vibrated with indignation. She needed no advocate. She made all her points with the utmost possible effect. She taunted the prosecution for not daring to confront her with her lover, Borderel, whose evidence is the government's strongest argument. Her indignant, "I have never sold myself," made Judge Valles confess that she was no money leech.

M. Brieux in his play, "The Red Robe," has not argued more powerfully for a change in the French form of investigating crime than did Mme. Steinheil. "If you seek light," she exclaimed, "why not have investigations public? This is my first opportunity to publicly face the charges against me. I will speak." It must be said that the dominant thought of the audience was: "What a splendid witness!" The feeling would not be dismissed that she was not as she declared sustained by the thought of her innocence. It was felt that she was playing a role, not written by another and learned, but one imagined by herself and acted with superb ability. The first day's testimony brought events up to the dinner on the night of the crime.

Promises to Make Shortage Good. New York, Nov. 4.—Charles L. Warriner, the local treasurer of the Big Four at Cincinnati, who was brought here to the office of President Brown of the New York Central practically under arrest for embezzlement to explain why his accounts were upward of $100,000 short, has gone back home after giving his story of why the shortage appears. The statement is made that he will pay up every penny.

The Kaiser will open the reichstag in person on November 30.

SHE LOST HER HOME

House of Mrs. Dealin, Who Was Holding Ballots, Destroyed by Fire.

Jackson, Ky., Nov. 3.—The home of Mary Dealin, who held the ballots in the Crockettville precinct, was destroyed by fire while Mrs. Dealin was feeding soldiers from Lexington. The ballots were destroyed and a fresh consignment was sent from Jackson. Reports declare that the fire was incendiary. The ballots in charge of Mrs. Dealin were the ones given over to her by Judge Adams after one consignment had been stolen by armed men from the Jackson bank here.

Predictions that "only a man or two would be killed during the voting in Breathitt county" were justified in the Spring Fork precinct and in a dramatic manner. Here Thiden Blanton, with a left-hand shot, instantly killed Demosthenes Noble, after Noble had crippled Blanton's right arm with a bullet. Noble had previously, according to Blanton, placed a pistol at the breast of two of Blanton's brothers. Noble was a member of a powerful feudal family, a former employee of Judge James Hargis, and complications are expected.

COURT SAYS THEY MUST GO TO JAIL

Sentence Against Labor Leaders Has Been Affirmed.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The court of appeals of the District of Columbia has approved the jail sentences imposed by Justice Wright of the District of Columbia supreme court on President Samuel Gompers, Vice President John Mitchell and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor for contempt of court. Gompers was sentenced to serve one year; Mitchell nine months and Morrison six months. Counsel for the three union labor leaders will take an appeal to the supreme court of the United States if it is legally feasible to do so. The men in contempt will not be arrested until the court's mandate has been issued, which will be in about ten days. The contempt proceedings grew out of an action taken by the Buck's Stove and Range company of St. Louis to compel the federation from maintaining a boycott against it. A temporary injunction afterwards made permanent was issued against the federation. The federation continued to keep the St. Louis concern on its "We don't patronize" list and the company instituted proceedings to adjudge Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison as active officers of the federation in contempt of court. Justice Wright of the District of Columbia supreme court adjudged them guilty and imposed the jail sentences. It was from his decision that the appeal just determined was taken to the court of appeals.

NIPPED IN BUD

Plan for Wholesale Jail Delivery at Chicago Thwarted by Jailer.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—A plot for a wholesale delivery of prisoners in the county jail was frustrated by Jailer William Davies. The prisoners had planned to attack the guards, secure the keys to the cells and liberate all the prisoners. The prisoners have been permitted from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening to walk in the corridors of the jail. Jailer Davies discovered that there was a plot on foot to attack some of the guards during this time and he gave orders that the prisoners be locked in the cells and not permitted to enjoy their evening stroll.

Nesbit Forfeited Bond.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3.—When the case of Howard Nesbit, brother of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, was called in the common pleas court the defendant did not answer and the bond of $2,000 was forfeited.

PARIS CROWDS TO TRIAL TODAY

Madame Steinheil's Case Attracts Unusual Interest.

THE TREAT OF A LIFETIME

Thousands of Women Thus Regard the Hearing of This Celebrated Case and Have Ordered Special Costumes for Court Attendance—Society and Stagedom Prominent in the Struggle for Seats—Judges Have Received 25,000 Letters Appealing for Admission to the Court.

Paris, Nov. 3.—The trial of Mme. Marguerite Steinheil, who is accused of having murdered her husband and mother seventeen months ago, began today in the Seine assize court. The length of time between the commission of the crime and the trial has been due less to the dilatoriness of the law than to the difficulty the police have experienced in finding direct evidence against the accused woman. Interest in the case seems to have grown with the delay, and never, perhaps, was Paris more inflamed with curiosity concerning the arraignment of a prisoner. The whole city has been trying to get tickets of admission to the courthouse. Thousands of women have been interested in the trial as a treat of a lifetime, and many have ordered special costumes and special millinery for the occasion.

Society and stagedom have been prominent in the struggle for seats, which however, has not been confined to Paris. Thousands of applications for tickets have come from the provinces. Altogether the judges and other court officials have received 25,000 letters appealing for admission.

FORMER EDITOR WAS TAKEN IN THE ACT

Watchman Caught Akers In Neighbor's Store.

Cloverdale, Ind., Nov. 3.—Attorney John C. Akers, the former editor of the Cloverdale Graphic, was dangerously wounded by Jerry Bunning, a night watchman, while Akers was in the act of robbing a store. There have been many robberies here lately and a watchman was employed by merchants. Bunning heard some one in Denny's general store and as he approached the burglar fired at him. Several shots were exchanged and the burglar sank to the floor with a groan.

While Bunning was gone for help the burglar escaped, but men who saw him on the street recognized him as Akers. Officers then went to the Akers' home, where Akers and his wife fought like tigers and both had to be overpowered. In the house were found many articles that had been stolen from local stores.

Akers furnished a $1,000 bond for his preliminary hearing. Akers has two children and owes his downfall to the use of intoxicants and drugs, it is said.

Slays Brother After a Row.

McLeansboro, Ill., Nov. 3.—Cleveland, Frank and Weaver Riley, sons of Thomas Riley, got into a row at the dinner table. Cleveland ran into another room, seized a shotgun, ran into the yard and then fired through the open doorway. His brother Frank fell to the floor, wounded, and died four hours later. Cleveland is in the county jail.

GAMBLERS' WAR RENEWED

Bombs 33 and 34 Exploded at Chicago Sunday Night.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Within thirty minutes of each other bombs "33" and "34," marking the renewal of the Chicago gamblers' internal warfare, were exploded Sunday night. The first bomb was exploded in the rear of the Empire building at 260 State street, which houses the Empire Whist club, operated by the Smith-Perry-Colby gambling syndicate. The second bomb was exploded in the rear of the building at 170 Madison street, in which Ed Wagner and "Fatty" Woods shelter their interests. The two heavy explosions shook the great buildings in the loop district to their foundations and created a panic all over the downtown district which had not been equalled in recent years. From hotels, theaters and buildings people poured into the streets. The damage to the State street building was slight, only windows being broken, the wrecking of the interior amounting to little. Estimates of the damage were placed at $1,500. The damage of the building on Madison street was placed at $10,000.

PELLAGRA FLEES AT WINTER'S APPROACH

Disease in Illinois Rapidly Disappearing.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Pellagra, the nation's new disease, which developed a scare in the corn belt, is beginning to disappear in the insane hospitals at Dunning and Elgin, where it flourished during the summer months. Only a few cases are being treated at these institutions.

At Dunning four patients now are afflicted with pellagra. A total of twenty-six patients were treated there since the disease first was discovered, fourteen of whom died. In the other twelve cases the malady has subsided. At Elgin only two cases remain.

The approach of winter is believed to be the cause of the disappearance of the disease. Doctors studying pellagra at the two hospitals are unable to state positively whether the disappearance of the disease is temporary or permanent.

HE'S CUT OUT MEAT

Governor Blackburn Becomes a Vegetarian on the Isthmus.

Versailles, Ky., Nov. 1.—A hearty welcome was given Governor Joseph C. S. Blackburn of the Panama canal zone by his friends and neighbors upon his return home. He left after a brief stay here for his farm near Spring Station and will be in Kentucky until about November 10, when he returns to Washington for a conference with President Taft. "I found I would have to wait two weeks before I could see the President," he said, "and I decided I would rather spend that time in Kentucky."

Governor Blackburn says that he has become a vegetarian and that it is agreeing with him. He has not eaten any meat since he has been in Panama, he says, and has been living almost entirely on fruit and milk.

The people of Versailles are planning to give Governor Blackburn a public reception which will be in the nature of an appreciation of his distinguished public services and the honor he has shed upon his town and county.

Wasn't Quite Through With It. Anderson, Ind., Nov. 3.—"I'll be through with your revolver in a minute," said Calvin Richart to a neighbor, who called at his home to get a revolver which Richart had borrowed to kill some cats. Richart stepped into the next room, apparently to get the weapon, and shot himself through the heart.

Lost In Obscurity.

"Ain't you almost afraid to be so sharp and caustic about people?" "I used to be," answered the press humorist, "but now I have about come to the conclusion that nobody reads my stuff."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MR. GLADSTONE
DIDN'T LIKE ITHis Spirit Protested at Being Brought Back.

STEAD'S SPIRITIST STUNTS

This Time Great Journalist Claims to Have Held a Long Conversation With the Shade of Departed Statesman, Who Declares It Is Distasteful to Him to Be Disturbed in Such a Manner—British Capital Stirred by Purported Revelations From the Former Premier.

London, Nov. 1.—The Chronicle thinks it worth while to give the most prominent place in its issue today to a long report of a purported conversation held yesterday with the spirit of the late William E. Gladstone by William T. Stead through the medium of the spirit of a dead American newspaper woman, whom Mr. Stead calls Julia.

Mr. Gladstone's spirit is represented as having answered numerous questions, saying among other things, that he agrees with the principles of the budget bill, and that he thinks the house of lords will act most wisely if it rejects it. He advises the government not to dissolve immediately if the house of lords passes the bill, but to await a more favorable opportunity.

The spirit of the former prime minister is further made to say that it is distasteful, although not harmful, to him to be thus brought back to the old political arena. It adds: "I desire to detach myself from this set of disturbances, and to go my way in the manner I desire."

Slim Vote at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Nov. 2.—An unusually slim vote is being polled today in the municipal election. A brisk, though not exciting, campaign has been conducted, and both sides are confident of victory. The betting boards for some days have shown about even money on the mayoralty contest between Shank, Republican, and Gauss, Democrat. Little interest has been taken in the race of Alford, independent candidate for mayor.

Pushing a Good Thing Along.

Washington, Nov. 2.—A "donation" of $25 to "aid the government in the construction of the Panama canal," was received at the treasury today. It came from the People's National Progressive club of Birmingham, Ala. The same organization contributed a like amount for the same purpose April last. The money has been covered into the treasury as directed.

Couldn't Endure Life Without Her.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 1.—That Rollin Hutchens of Sheridan, Ind., deliberately jumped in front of a Monon train at Indianapolis and killed himself because his offer of marriage was spurned by Miss Myrtle Jackson, a bookkeeper of this city, was established beyond a doubt when Miss Jackson received an explanatory letter from Hutchens. The letter was mailed at Indianapolis just before the unhappy man's mangled body was found on the track.

Slain in Sight of Many.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 1.—Before the eyes of probably a score of witnesses and in the full glare of an electric street light, Jacob A. King, thirty-eight years old, was knocked down and killed Saturday night at Virginia avenue and New Jersey street. Charles Pacey, an Italian and a prize fighter, is in custody accused of dealing the murderous blow without apparent provocation.

THE PRESIDENT
TALKS TO GIRLSWould Have Them Take Time
In Choosing Husbands.

USGES CARE IN VITAL CHOICE

President Taft Makes a Significant Point in Addressing Mississippi Girls, Decrying the Fact That So Often Matrimony With a Woman Is a Matter of Circumstance Instead of Choice—He Also Speaks a Good Word for Women's Suffrage, but Takes Care to Qualify His Utterance on This Subject.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 3.—President Taft has been convinced by another day spent in what he calls the heart of the south that southerners are willing to meet him more than half way in his ambition to restore the old time influence of Dixie land in the central government. The President regards his meetings in the state of Mississippi as the most significant evidence he has seen of the south toward him. There were six or seven of these Mississippi receptions yesterday and any one of them would have attracted unusual attention in a strong Republican state. At these meetings the President renewed his pledge to help the south and cited the appointment of Secretary Dickinson to his cabinet as an earnestness of his desire to have the south resume an active role in the government at Washington. In a speech before 500 industrial school girls at Columbus, Miss., the President made this statement: "I shall be glad that I shall not have any property to leave to my boys, of whom I have two, but only a good character and a pride in themselves and a good education, but for my daughter I am going to scrape together as much as I can give her and as good an education, so that she may follow the lesson that I have sought to teach her—that she may marry only when she chooses to marry and not because of circumstances."

This statement was the concluding one in Mr. Taft's speech to the girls. He had advised them not to be in a hurry to marry. He said: "I wish that every woman in the world was so situated that she did not think it was necessary for her to marry if she did not want to. That is a proposition I am prepared to defend against all comers. I am the last one to take a position against the old common law doctrine—that there ought to be nothing to interfere with matrimony. But I would have the matter so arranged that the women when they come to decide and make their choice may have a full and free choice."

"The great trouble has been," said the President, "that we have not given the woman a fair show. We have not opened all the avenues to livelihood that the woman is quite as well able to fill and in some respects better able to fill."

"I am not a rabid suffragist," he went on. "The truth is I am not in favor of suffrage for women until I can be convinced that all the women desire it, and when they desire it I am in favor of giving it to them, and when they desire it they will get it, too."

The President will leave here at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

GOOD MAN GONE WRONG

New York, Nov. 3.—Charles L. Warriner, the local treasurer of the passenger department of the Big Four railroad at Cincinnati, has been brought from that city to New York, charged with embezzlement. It will be several days, Brown said, before the exact amount can be estimated.

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — Mrs. Emma Inse, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

He Thought It Peculiar.

Some years ago Frank A. Munsey, the magazine man, hired a private secretary. Speaker Reed dropped in to call on Mr. Munsey, who was an old friend of his. The secretary said that Mr. Munsey was engaged.

"All right," said Reed, "I'll wait." At the end of half an hour Munsey's door opened, and the publisher appeared, showing his caller out.

Seeing the speaker, he grasped his hand and dragged him into his office. An hour later, when Reed had gone, Mr. Munsey called his secretary.

"Look here, Block," he said, "what do you mean by letting Speaker Reed wait unannounced half an hour?"

"Wa-wa-wa that Mr. Reed?"

"Why, I thought it with the Rev. Dr. John Hall," said the secretary.

"Dr. Hall has been dead two years," answered Munsey severely.

"I know it," replied the secretary. "That's why I thought it with the very peculiar."

Joined the Rejected.

A murder case had been called in court, and it was extremely difficult to get a jury. A long list of talesmen had been examined with poor results when Mike McGinnis was summoned. "Mr. McGinnis," asked the judge, "have you formed or expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the prisoner at the bar?"

"No, sir," replied Mike. "Have you any conscientious scruples against capital punishment?"

"Not in this case, your honor," Mike replied.

NICARAGUA IS NOT OBSERVING TREATY

State Department Hears Word from Central America.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Rumors continue to reach the state department that President Davila of Honduras is aiding President Zelaya of Nicaragua in defending himself against the present revolutionary movement in behalf of Estrada, who recently was named president of a provisional government consisting of a section of Nicaragua lying on the Atlantic side.

While these reports are vague, they indicate that the Honduran government is violating the treaty signed at Washington in December, 1907. So far the state department has taken no action in the matter, but it is probable that the United States and Mexico, who were instrumental in bringing about the Washington peace conference, will make vigorous representations to Davila in order to maintain neutrality in the revolution in Nicaragua.

WOKE UP TOO LATE

The Town of Olean Napped Through Election Season.

Moore's Hill, Ind., Nov. 4.—The little town of Olean, with a population of five hundred, in the northern part of Dearborn county, it appears, will be without a town board or town officials of any kind. The present town board forgot all about an election until two or three days ago. When it woke up, it was too late to nominate even one ticket. According to the present law, the town trustees now in office go out with the expiration of the term for which they were elected and not, as formerly, when their terms extended until their successors were qualified.

INTERESTING DISCOVERY

Highest Waterfall in America Found by Explorers in Labrador.

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 4.—Edward Welch Barr, the Oshkosh explorer, who has returned from Labrador, reports the discovery in the wilderness of a huge waterfall, which he is confident is the highest on the western hemisphere. The discovery was made on a forced canoe trip up the Caster river. Mr. Barr and his party were attracted by a roar, and tracing the noise, came upon the falls.

POSSE SLAYS NEGRO

West Virginians Aroused Over Brutal Attack on Defenseless Couple.

Sutton, W. Va., Nov. 4.—Three negroes visited the home of Charles Lockwood, a farmer living at Exchange, near here, and taking Lockwood from his home tied him to a tree, where he was given a severe horse whipping. Then they entered the home and dragged out Mary Lockwood, his wife, and attempted a criminal assault upon her. Charles Lewis, one of the negroes supposed to be connected with the affair, was shot and instantly killed by members of the posse when they came on him in hiding a few miles from the home. Lewis refused to surrender and started to run, when a volley was fired and he fell dead, with fifteen bullets in his body. Lockwood is in a serious condition and may die from his injuries, while his wife also sustained severe injuries in battling with the negroes.

INDIANAPOLIS WILL WELCOME JAPANESE

Big Banquet Being Prepared for Visitors.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—One of the most elaborate dinners ever served in Indianapolis has been arranged in honor of the Japanese commission, which will spend next Tuesday in the city. The dinner is to be served at the Claypool hotel, and will follow a reception to the visitors, which will begin at 7:30 p. m. The reception and dinner will mark the close of a busy day which the Japanese will have in sightseeing and visiting about the city.

Senator A. J. Beveridge is to be toastmaster at the dinner, and those who will be heard are Governor Marshall, Aquila Q. Jones, president of the board of trade, and Charles W. Miller, United States district attorney. The responses will be by Baron Euchi Shibusawa and Baron Naibu Kanda of the Japanese commission.

Numerous applications for invitations to dinner have been received by the committee in charge of the arrangements. As the number of plates will be limited, the applications will be accepted in the order in which they are received.

Honored Their Emperor.

SPOKE IN PARABLES

How the President Evaded a Ticklish Question.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 4.—President Taft's speech at Capitol park here was based on the relations between the north and the south. He was interrupted by one of his auditors.

"We all love you," the man shouted. The President paused a moment, chuckled quietly and said: "Well, you remember that old quotation, 'Perhaps it was right to dissemble your love, but why did you kick me downstairs?'"

It was five minutes before the 5,000 or 6,000 people could take their hands off their sides and the President could make himself heard. "I am quite aware," he went on, "that in addressing an Alabama audience I am talking to one that, while perhaps it likes me—at least I hope it does—it feels that the interest of the country requires the selection of some other candidate."

The first question fired at the President when he entered Alabama was this one: "How do you stand on the prohibition amendment?" Meaning the proposed prohibition amendment to the Alabama state constitution. The state has now one of the most stringent prohibition laws in the union.

When it came to this the President fell back on an old fable, "I am not an Alabamian," said he, "and you remember that time when Reynard, the fox, was invited in to decide a question between the lion and some other powerful animal. He had a cold and could not smell. I must take a subject not quite so red hot."

Beside the speech in Capitol park, the President took breakfast in the Country club and viewed a big parade from the latter's veranda, among which was a number of confederate veterans.

Later he shook hands with them all and one said: "You, sah, have conquered the secessionists, the Ku-Klux and the cranky Democrats."

"That is good," said the President, with a smile.

GRACEFUL ECONOMY.

When You Feel Blue Go and Buy
Something Expensive.

CURE NOT IN MEDICAL BOOKS

Household Savings That Often Make the Man of the Family Grumble and Go Off to the Club to Recover—Artistic Needlework.

Dear Elsa—Yesterday the world looked gray and prosy, and I was feeling awfully down in the mouth, not to say glum. The cause thereof was an inspection of my last winter's tailor made, and because it did not seem to be miles beyond the present style, although the skirt is rather skimpy, I determined to be economical and make it do duty this season. Really, my dear, I had worked myself up to such a righteous state that my nerves were all on a jangle—goodness never did agree with me—and had about decided that what I needed was a course of treatment, osteopathic or some sort of pick-me-up, when the tempter whispered in my ear: "But, just for the fun, why not try a new suit cure instead? It won't be much more expensive." Well, I hearkened to the voice of this agreeable visitor, and before conscience and more sordid notions of economy could get in their fine work I dressed, went down town and soon forgot my vapors of the morning in the fascinating occupation of selecting a new suit.

Things have a fashion of taking on a surprisingly pleasing aspect when seen in the company of an unexpected new suit, and, strange to say, even one's friends are more attentive. It's scandalous doctrine I'm preaching, recommending extravagance and boldly exhorting you to prodigality, but there are times when a little of it is better than medicine and a moderate dose may ward off an incipient case of melancholia. Mine was not so serious a case. Still, the psychological moment had arrived when something strenuous had to be done.

So now, after you have nursed an economical spirit for a wholesome number of weeks and made yourself properly miserable by it and acquired the right degree of merit by entertaining some highly meritorious and penurious motives, just go out and spoil it all by treating yourself to some new clothes and see how you feel. If I am not very much mistaken the first thing you'll do will be to walk down the street with a marvelous spring in your step. Your shoulders will be up, and you'll decide that the world is a rather agreeable place after all. At least this is the effect plunging had on me. Of course you want to know what I bought. Nothing very wonderful—just a smart trotting suit of rather rough tweed in lime green, with flecks of dull red and browns through it. The coat I just love. It's a new version of the old Russian blouse with a high collar of dark green velvet elaborately incrustated with a design in dull silver. The sleeves, which, by the way, are cut in one with the body of the coat, have turnback cuffs similarly ornamented. The skirt is plaited. While I was in for a penny I thought I might as well spend a pound, so I really had not the moral courage to withstand the alluring beauties of a Russian toque in lime green velvet. There's a band of skunk for a brim, which makes me look not unlike a colonel of hussars on parade, but could you see the lovely aigret of tinselled peacock feathers that stand aloft you would forgive me my sins of extravagance.

And in this household there is mighty little credit for economy anyhow. Men are always preaching economy to their wives, and yet if one does try to be saving the thankless creature goes off grumbling to the club, I've worried myself into a fever keeping down the table expenses because I thought Dick wanted to retrench, and do I get any thanks? Not a particle. He was as cross as two sticks last Sunday because we had hash for supper.

I was talking this matter over with Dorothy D., the other day. "Men are all alike," was her verdict. "We were giving a dinner recently for some of John's business friends, and, knowing that we ought to save where we can, I didn't have any flowers. I thought business men, you know, would not notice. But John was positively disagreeable about the omission and said his friends would think he was too poor to afford table decorations." Mother, who happened to be in the room, stopped the discussion by observing in her quiet way: "My dears, there are two ways of economizing—the tactful and the tactless. Hash, now, is tactless economy. Nothing gives a man such a poverty stricken, boarding house feeling as to be served with hash Sunday night, too, when most people look forward to something extra nice. You should have found some attractive way of using your leftover meat. Served in a scooped out tomato, sea-

Choose Your Words.

A lady who was very plain looking called on a friend. This friend's little girl came into the room, and her mother introduced her.

"But, mamma, isn't she awfully homely?" said the "young hopeful" after the lady's departure.

"Why, Laura, you mustn't say such things. It isn't polite."

"I meant it only as a joke."

"But, dear, how much more of a joke it would have been if you had said, 'How pretty she is!'"

Had It In For Them.

Harvey Naugan's mother-in-law was taken sick at his house one night and helped herself to a large dose of rat poison, thinking it was painkiller. They had a frightful time with the old lady. She had consumed sufficient poison, the doctor said, to kill a dozen persons. But she pulled through.

"It was a close shave," said the doctor the next morning. "She took enough to kill the whole family, but the stuff fortunately must have been in stock for some time, and nearly all its strength was gone."

A month later a friend asked Harvey Naugan to recommend a reliable druggist to him.

"Squills is a good man, I understand," said the friend. "Know anything about him?"

"Well," said Harvey Naugan slowly. "I couldn't conscientiously recommend Squills & Co. to you, old man. They swindled me on some rat poison once."—Louisville Times.
